Blaze Found Sunday In Furnace Room

For two hours Sunday morning Cedarville's volunteer fire department battled a stubborn and costly blaze in the new men's dormitory at Cedarville college.

Don Barger, Hamilton, the college's ace three-sport athlete, and Don Wheaton, of Akron, football player, were the only occupants of the building, when about 8:30 a. m. they discovered the flames.

Though the location of the fire is definite, its cause is still something of a mystery. Something went wrong with the coal heating plant, on the ground floor, and the resultant fire spread rapidly through the north end of the building.

Both stories of the dormitory, opened only a short time ago as a very valuable addition to the campus buildings, were gutted. An accurate estimate of the damage has not been possible, President Vayhtinger says, but it can not be less than $10,000, he adds. The building was covered completely by insurance, though clothing and books and equipment belonging to students living in the dormitory were not insured, and the loss will run into a considerable sum. Most of the loss of contents of the dormitory was caused by smoke and water.

The boiler room and its contents were ruined, and the room above suffered more than any other section of the building. No name had been given to the dormitory although it has been in use since January. It has a capacity of about 40 students. It was obtained from the war surplus commodities and worked wonders in relieving the housing shortage at the college.

Barger was first to discover that something was wrong. Smelling smoke and feeling heat, he crawled to the room of his roommate, Don Wheaton, around him, and they turned in the alarm. The population of the dormitory was reduced to the two men who did not go away for the Easter vacation.

Favorable comment is being heard about the fire department's quick response to the alarm, and efficient work at the scene of the fire. Less capable service might have resulted in a greater loss, college authorities will believe.

Occurring as it did on Easter Sunday morning, not every resident knew of the catastrophe until later in the day. Insurance adjusters will make estimates within a short time and work toward reconditioning the very valuable and very necessary campus building will begin, the president hopes.

Quick action on the part of the two athletes in the building, immediate response to the alarm by the fire department and efficient firefighting did much to keep the smaller loss than might otherwise have resulted.

Jackets Open Home Season On April 10

Ten home games are expected to be played by the Cedarville college basketball team this spring, according to Athletic Director Mandell E. Beattie. Eight of the contests are already scheduled and two remain tentative as far as dates are concerned.

In all, the Yellow Jackets will play 19 games. Dates have been set for all except two each with Ohio State Jaycees and Morehead State Teachers, and a road game at Bluffton.

The Jackets, who have been practicing for the past two weeks when weather permitted, will open their card next week with two games. On Friday they journey to Marshall college, at Huntington, W. Va., for their first action, and on Saturday they will play another out-of-state foe in the Villa Madonna of Covington, Ky., in the home opener.

The 1948 card, believed to be one of the most extensive ever tackled by a Cedarville college team, adds five schools which did not appear on the schedule last season, when the Jackets won five and lost three. Besides Marshall and Villa Madonna, other new teams to be faced are University of Dayton, Wilmington and Morehead.

Every team played last year will again be faced. They are Findlay and Xavier, who gained splits with the locals, Wilberforce State, whom the Jackets beat twice, and Ohio State J. V.'s, who beat the locals in the only game played of two scheduled.

Coach Beattie and the boys hope for better weather this spring, which will enable them to play all their games. Numerous contests had to be cancelled last spring and were never played.

Although five regulars are missing by graduation, loss to the professional ranks, and drop-outs, Cedarville has four returning pitchers, including Marcus Townsley and Gene Judy, who are counted on as mainstays, and Carl Watkins and Marty Weimer. The team should be strong again down the middle, for Rolfe Barton, catcher, Bill Dunlap, second baseman, and Don Barger, center fielder, are all back.

Most likely candidates seem to be Bucky Shumate at short, James (Bull) Pater at third, and George Lipp, Roger Ullish, or Bob Rader for the outfield spots. A battle between Forrest Moler and "Butch" Ross looms for first base. Outstanding new chukker is Larry Brooks, who pitched in Dayton for various sandlot and semi-pro nines.

Educator Warns Against Specialization

Over-specialization and the crowding of college and university students into a very few professions will bring serious results, President Edward F. Memmott, of Urbana Junior college, warned in a talk to the Greene county students and faculty members at chapel hour, Wednesday.

"Economic and social problems are bound to result from hasty decisions of young men and women to rush into a few professions for the moment," he pointed out, illustrating the need of study of professions and their opportunities, as well as their needs.

"There are at least 200 fields of service that should be considered by young folk, and decisions about life work should be made only after these studies have been made," he advised.

The popular and experienced college executive urged students to take broad, preparatory courses of a general nature as a basis for life's work, and "make sure that a general education is obtained before specialization is undertaken. 'Much specialization is done too early and too intensely,' he said.

Discovery of personal factors of intelligence, persistence and personality is a necessity, and takes time and study, the visitor stated.

Never a company to do things half-heartedly, the Pennsy has ordered an additional 114 locomotives of this design for both passenger and freight service.

Easter Sunday Fair and Cold

Easter Sunday's skies were fair for the most part in this part of God's world, but there was a decided zip in the air that didn't smack of spring to any noticeable extent.

Crowds of worshipers flocked to services, and both morning and evening events welcomed capacity audiences. In a world born with "wars and the rumors of wars" Christian people welcomed the opportunity to go to church, grateful that they live in the part of the world that gives them the untrammelled right to worship in freedom.

Urge M V Dairy Farmers to Up Size of Herds

Establishment of more 10, 20 and 30 cow dairy herds on farms in the Miami valley area, to assure a constant supply of milk for Dayton, is the keynote of a "Million Dollar Milk Production Program," launched Monday at a conference sponsored by the dairy industry of Dayton.

Plans for the program were outlined at the meeting by Walter P. Moler, dairy industry member.

"Farmers in the Dayton area have an untapped million dollar market in milk sales waiting to be developed. This program is planned to help them realize this tremendous increase in farm income and security," Moler said.

"Here are the facts: Dayton has more than 100,000 people, and the Dayton trading area has increased 14 per cent since 1941, which is more than twice the national average. Naturally, the demand for milk has kept pace with this huge population increase. In fact, the number of cows has been going down while our baby population has been going up."

Four major problems must be overcome before farm income from dairying can be increased in the Dayton milk shed, according to dairy industry officials. First, not enough farmers are engaged in dairying, although it offers a sound and dependable source of income. Second, there are too many four or five cow herds, which cannot be operated profitably. Third, too many cows freshen in the spring, causing an over supply during April, May and June. Fourth, many good herds are being dispersed by older men.

The new program plans to meet these problems by encouraging more interest in dairying as an important and stable part of diversified farming. More 10, 20 and 30 cow dairy herds are urged as more profitable to the farmer and more dependable from the dairy and consumer viewpoint.

In addition, emphasis will be placed on having more cows freshen during the present shortage period of November, December and January. Artificial insemination and breeding by proven sires will be stressed as essential to building better milk producing herds.

The "Million Dollar Milk Production Program" will also use every means to encourage even production of high quality milk. Free information and help for farmers interested in dairying or enlarging present facilities will be available from the Dayton dairy industry and county agents. Plans for a day-long combination barn and milk house, dairy barn booklet, milk house plans and a folder titled, "Farmers' Guide to More Profitable Dairying," will be made available without cost to interested farmers.

The Monday conference for the "Million Dollar Milk Production Program" was attended by county agricultural extension service agents from ten counties in the Dayton area, Miami Valley Co-operative Milk Producers association officers, Dayton division of health officials and representatives from Dayton dairies and the dairy council.

Annual Fish Fry to Be Held AT Field House

The Greene county fish and game fish fry will be held at the field house, Xenia, April 6, at 6 p. m. The speakers will be Rev. Lawrence Hall and H. A. (Buck) Rider, chief of Ohio division of conservation.

Rev. Hall was a member of a famous English theatrical family but did not choose to follow the wishes of his parents for a stage career, preferring the ministry. He reportedly has a flare for story telling and has an almost inexhaustible collection of stories.

They are expecting 1,000 at the dinner and tickets are limited in number but they will try to accommodate those wishing tickets until Saturday, April 3.

A Cedarville girl, Joanne Sheeley, is a member of the trio of young ladies to be guests of the association. The other two girls are Cynthia Shick of Xenia and Patty Shook of Yellow Springs. They represented the association at the outdoors show in Dayton recently.

Program Chairman Dr. W. H. Pavey will preside at the dinner and President, Archie Peterson will outline the work of the association during the past year. Merchandise prizes will be awarded.

Chest Clinic to Be Moved to Memorial Hospital

Plans to relocate the chest clinic, sponsored by the Greene County Public Health League, to the new Greene Memorial hospital when that building is completed, were made by league members at a dinner meeting at the Antioch tea room, Yellow Springs, Monday night.

The clinic is now conducted in the basement of Xenia city hall. Plans also were discussed for the purchase of a new X-ray machine and other equipment for the new Receipts from the sale of Christmas seals in 1947 amounted to $6,232.97, an increase of 3 per cent over 1946, according to a report made by Miss Gertrude Fulton, Xenia, league treasurer. Money derived from the sale goes toward financing projects of the league.

Twenty-seven members and guests attended the meeting, at which Mrs. W. C. Poole, Osborn, the new president, presided. Following the business session, a movie, "Goodbye, Mr. Germ," was shown.

Wilberforce Singers in Song Fest

Large group of singers from Wilberforce College of Education and Industrial Arts had a prominent part in the program of folk songs and dances at Wilmington College Friday evening.

"A capacity crowd of nearly 1,000 persons received the four-hour cavalcade with enthusiasm, as the native music of 16 nations was presented by 12 Ohio colleges," says the News-Journal reporting the festival.

The climactic finale, and in the estimation of critics the highlight of the program, was the production of Earl Robinson's tragic folk drama of the death of Abraham Lincoln, "The Lonesome Train," done in perfect form by a cast of 60 from Wilberforce.

Conceded as another classic of the festival was the group of negro spirituals sung by Miss Leontyne Price, soprano soloist of the Wilberforce participants.

Farm Income in County Declines

Farm income in Greene county decreased $106,000 according to computations for December and January made by the census bureau and the department of agriculture, using a method of computation formerly used by a now inactive informal congressional committee. During January, the income was reported as $709,000.

The estimates are broken down into $74,000 from sale of crops and $655,000 from sale of livestock and livestock products.
